Challenges

I am currently aspiring to develop myself in another type of architecture. With the desire to expand my knowledge on this subject, I am studying the Gothic style to implement it in current constructions.

I know in depth the Romanesque architectural style but I consider that, at present, it would not have the same impact as Gothic architecture. Although the last mentioned derives in part from Romanesque and Renaissance architecture, I see it in a very different way.

As for this architectural style, what dazzles me the most is the lighting inside the buildings and the structural lightness. Not to mention the spectacular Art Vitraux embodied in glass windows. From my point of view, Gothic architecture attracts more people these days.
